CHOCOLATE DYNAMITE

May and her mother kept the country grocery store. That night May's mother had a headache and May agreed to assume the management of affairs. After all the customers had gone, May put the money in the safe and went to bed. Two burglars looking in the window, saw May put the money away and broke into the store shortly after May had retired. May heard them and came to the rescue. May's mother also heard and came in. At that point May was siezed with an inspiration. A box of candy near-by was marked "Dynamite", but which really contained a large chocolate candy stick. May siezed the stick and held it in the air just over the burglar's head, while her mother notified the sheriff of police by telephone. At last he arrived and the tramps were arrested. They broke loose from the sheriff, but May again held them up by throwing the box of dynamite after their retreating figures, and thus they were recaptured.
